The Newham Recorder has a strong reputation for its service to the community. As well as the traditional heartland of East London, the series also serves the growing residential and business communities of Docklands.

If you want to promote your business in the East London area, the Newham Recorder with it's reach of over 40,000 adults every week is a sensible option.

Despite national newspapers trying to cover London news, judging by the sales of this title, people still turn to the Newham Recorder to find out what is happening and going on locally.

The extensive Homes section with properties for sale and rent is another indication that this title is the must have media for the area.
